

The Herald-Dispatch
(Utica, New York)
Saturday, April 14, 1900

In an article dealing with who should be included in the "Hall of Fame," the following comment was made:

...Then, who was John Maynard? Probably the hero of John B. Gough's well-known story, the heroic helmsman, who stood by the wheel of the burning vessel until he saved the passengers and lost his own life. There are hundreds of other brave men equally worthy, including John Hay's "Jim Bludsoe."